HIBBERT JURY DISAGREES

JURORS DISMISSED AFTER FAILING TO REACH AGREEMENT

Case Re-Assigned For
December 7 When
Jury Discharged

Trial of James T. Hibbert, proprietor of the Bijou Theater, 19 Green St., on an indictment charging violation of the Sunday "blue" laws by exhibiting motion pictures on Sunday, was reassigned by the court for December 7 when a jury in Common Pleas Court, which heard the case Wednesday, reported it was unable to reach an agreement after nearly five hours of deliberation.

Still hopelessly "hung" at 9 o'clock Wednesday night after being in almost constant deliberation since 3:15 o'clock when the case was received, the jury was discharged by Judge R. L. Gowdy.

In the custody of a deputy sheriff, the jurors were taken to dinner at 6 p. m. and returned an hour later to resume consideration of the case.

It was reported that the jury took a total of twenty-three ballots and it was also unofficially reported that at one time the twelve jurors stood nine to three and finally eleven to one for conviction. A unanimous verdict was necessary for conviction. Because the extra petit jury venire of twenty persons was nearly exhausted before a jury was obtained for the Hibbert trial, the jury trial of Henry L. Binder, proprietor of the Orphium Theater, on a similar indictment, scheduled to begin Thursday, was postponed until sometime in December.

The second Hibbert trial was also re-assigned for December because Judge Gowdy will be absent from the bench during November, presiding on the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court bench at Cleveland under assignment of Carrington F. Marshall, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court.

In Hibbert's trial Wednesday, the defense offered no evidence, other than the claim motion pictures cannot be classed as a theatrical performance, and confined itself to cross-examination of witnesses and arguments to the jury.

Testimony of the following witnesses introduced by Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall was taken: Patrolmen Fred Jones and J. E. Craig; Mrs. R. R. Snodgrass, a member of the Christian citizenship committee of the Greene County W. C. T. U., which prosecuted the charge; Miss Katherine Hibbert, Clarence Brennan, operator of the motion picture machine, and Forest Gallager, an usher. The last three declined to answer questions with regard to their employment in the theater at the time the charge was made July 1.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH ENDS CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The Episcopal Church general convention cleared up odds and ends of work early today in preparation for adjournment this afternoon.

The formal election of a mission bishop to Nevada—reported to be Rev. Thomas Jenkins, of Minneapolis, Ore.—was the only major task before the convention.

When Bishop Murray, of Maryland, presiding bishop of the convention, bade his gavel this afternoon to close the 43rd triennial session, the delegates and delegates from all parts of the United States, the territories and foreign lands to meet again three years hence in Denver.

Late yesterday the house of Bishops passed a resolution protesting against immigration restrictions on orientals.

The present immigration and naturalization laws, the resolution said, are a hindrance to missionary work and a barrier to good will between the United States and oriental countries.

ROBINSON MAKES CAMPAIGN CAPITAL

WIMAR, Minn., Oct. 25.—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic nominee for vice president, swung through the corn and wheat country today with renewed vigor on the theory that Herbert Hoover's speech in New York City had placed the farm states definitely in the Democratic column.

He pounded on Hoover's declaration that the farm relief program is "state socialism." Robinson has found, he believed, intense resentment among the farmers against what they consider a slur on their political beliefs. "Hoover has branded them socialists," Robinson said.

CROSSING CRASH KILLS TWO

Revises Dawes Plan

S. Parker Gilbert, agent-general for reparations, who, after conferences with J. P. Morgan, Premier Poincare of France and Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer for Great Britain, has made genuine progress toward reconciling conflicting views of allies toward German reparations.

GOVERNOR ANSWERS OPPONENT'S CLAIM IN BOSTON ADDRESS

Huge Reception Is Given
Smith in Massachusetts

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 25.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith left a ringing cry against what he called the reactionary element of the Republican party in the capital of this vital electoral state and set out today for a twelve hour campaign through Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The Democratic nominee carried with him the memory of a great reception as he started on his second phase of the all-important eastern seaboard battle.

His itinerary was to take him through Blackstone, Mass., into Providence, Rhode Island, by motor and thereafter by train through Hartford, Waterbury, Derby, Shelton, New Haven, Bridgeport and South Norwalk before he arrives in New York at 10:20 p. m.

His Boston appearance was a pleasant experience from which his friends drew deductions that he could easily carry the state. The Boston newspapers, Republican and Democratic, compared the reception to that of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh whose demonstration was up to this time unsurpassed.

The fact that he was saved from the mobs of over-enthusiastic and curious crowds was a miracle at the Boston police force. He and Mrs. Smith during the parade and they were equally successful in their efforts to curb the seething throngs at the arena where he spoke.

Twenty persons were in the hall with sandwiches nine hours before he spoke and six hours later the outside crowds began bulging through the glass windows and doors. Many suffered minor cuts and bruises. Half a dozen women fainted.

In his speech last night at which 13,000 persons were massed in the arena and 17,000 more were connected at two other halls by loud speakers, Smith made his answer to the Madison Square Garden speech of Herbert Hoover, his Republican opponent. He took as his text Hoover's promise to "use words to convey our meaning, not to hide it."

The candidate contended Hoover's attitude on farm relief, prohibition and water power was "a use of language to cover up something." He quoted as advocates of his platform upon these issues, former President Roosevelt's gubernatorial campaigns in New York.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 25.—Charging that the Republican party had repudiated the south and "now comes waving the banner of brotherly love," James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1920, carried the Democratic campaign into Tennessee, a doubtful state, last night.

"For three decades Republican leaders cohabited with the brwery kings of the north and now they are here as white-winged messengers of prohibition," Cox charged.

ZEPPELIN DELAYED IN EAST; MAY CROSS NORTHERN OHIO

(BULLETIN)
By UNITED PRESS
The starting time of the Graf Zeppelin from Lakehurst, N. J., on its westward trip was still doubtful early Thursday afternoon, due to unfavorable weather at the eastern port.

It was hoped by the crew to leave Lakehurst before midnight Thursday. There is a possibility that the huge ship will pass over Cleveland, and make other changes in its route.

HOOVER NEW YORK SPEECH MAY HAVE SOUNDED DOMINANT ISSUE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Herbert Hoover found today he had stirred up a controversy that probably will dominate the campaign until its close twelve days hence when he denounced Governor Alfred E. Smith's prohibition modification, farm relief and waterpower proposals as "state socialism."

The Republican candidate today was studying Smith's Boston speech last night in which the Democratic candidate ridiculed the "socialistic" attack. He likewise gave his attention to the harsh criticism of his Madison Square Garden speech by Senator George Norris of Nebraska, independent Republican leader, who has declared for Smith.

Hoover was considering whether the fusillade will make it necessary for him to take up the issue again on his own behalf in the final campaign speech he will make at St. Louis on November 2 on his way west. He announced last night he would speak on farm relief and inland waterways chiefly, with some attention to other issues, in that address. The Republican candidate may decide to ignore Smith's reply. He has declined heretofore to be drawn into any debate.

Smith, it appears, is going to emphasize the "socialistic" attack. He has been waiting since the outset of the campaign for a tangible target, for Hoover to say something directly about his program. He now has it. He considers the last few days of a campaign the most important. He probably will use this ammunition to the limit, in a play for the "break" in the closing days. It revolves around his three leading issues.

Whether Hoover says anything further may depend upon just how persistent his opponent becomes and what Norris says in his speech Saturday night, formally declaring for Smith.

The Nebraska senator's word carrier far with those who followed the late Senator La Follette in 1924, especially in the northwest. He said Hoover's Madison Square Garden speech "slapped every progressive minded man and woman in America in the face." He thereby raised the issue directly.

It gives Norris an immediate weapon beyond his general opposition to Hoover, which he will set forth in detail in his Saturday night speech. Both Republican and Democratic leaders are studying the probable effect of Norris' support of Smith and making their own speculations. Hoover, himself, declined to comment on Norris' move.

OFFICIALS LEAVE FOR HOMES TO VOTE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 25.—Since the city of Washington is voteless, high government officials are planning to leave town to cast their ballots on November 6.

President Coolidge will probably lead the procession by voting for Herbert Hoover at Northampton, Mass. Hoover himself will vote at his home in Palo Alto, Calif., leaving here November 1 for the west and stopping the next day at St. Louis for a speech.

Other votes for Hoover, out of the Coolidge official family, will be registered thus:

Secretary of Agriculture Jardine at Manhattan, Kans.
Attorney General Sargent at Ludlow, Vt.

Plans for the secretaries of navy and commerce are still uncertain. Secretary of Interior West will vote by mail to Chicago. Chairman Work of the Republican national committee will go to Pueblo, Colo.

MOTHER OF KRESGE COMPANY OFFICIAL VICTIM OF TRAGEDY

Her Sister Killed; Two Grandchildren Are Injured

LANCASTER, O., Oct. 25.—Mrs. Jennie Hill, mother of Asa Hill, an official of the Kresge Company at Detroit, died here early today, bringing to two the death toll in a grade-crossing crash near Basil late yesterday.

Mrs. Cora Forsythe, 58, of Carthol, Perry County, sister of Mrs. Hill, died during the night.

The two women were riding in a car driven by Mrs. Hill's daughter, Mrs. Cora Oberst of Columbus, when the machine was struck by an inspection train on the old T. and O. C. railroad.

Mrs. Oberst's two children, Olive, aged 3 1-2, and Patricia Ann, aged 18 months, were seriously injured.

Patricia Ann was dragged for several hundred feet and it was some time before she was found. Police said it was a miracle that she was not killed.

The injured were brought to hospitals here. Mrs. Hill died at 5 a. m. Mrs. Oberst apparently did not see or suspect the proximity of the train which was carrying T. and O. C. officials on their annual inspection trip.

Asa Hill only recently completed the building of a $100,000 home which was to have been occupied by his mother.

The train struck the automobile broadside, carrying the wrecked machine down the tracks and scattering the occupants along the right of way.

The party left Columbus about noon to visit friends at Basil and Baltimore. Enroute home they drove to Lancaster to get Mrs. Forsythe who was visiting at the home of her daughter.

FIND SHORTAGE IN ACCOUNTS OF GUARD

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 25.—A shortage of $428.90 has been discovered in the accounts of Company G, Ohio National Guard, Lancaster, according to a joint report submitted to Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson, by Col. Robert Haubrich and Major C. W. Goble, made public today.

Col. Haubrich and Major Goble were sent to Lancaster by General Henderson after an officer of Company G, told Henderson he believed the company's accounts were not in order.

The report, as submitted to Henderson, said: "An unaccounted for shortage exists in the accounts of Company G, amounting to $428.90."

The report also charged that laws and regulations governing the handling of funds by the company, had been violated.

USE CANAL BASIN FOR FISH HATCHERY

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 25.—The state division of fish and game has taken over about five miles of the old Ohio Canal, between Laramie Reservoir and Newport Basin, in Auglaize County, contiguous to St. Marys and Wapakoneta, and will convert it into a basin for the propagation of fish.

Work on the project is to be started immediately, and should be completed in a few months. Large screens are to be provided at both ends of the basin to allow an inlet and outlet for water. While the canal is now dry, it is the plan of the division to bring the water in from the Laramie Reservoir.

ECONOMY COMMITTEE CLAIMS STATE EXPENSES CAN BE SLICED

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 25.—More than $2,500,000 a year can be cut off the cost of the state government by the adoption of recommendations to be made by the joint legislative committee on economy, appointed by the last general assembly members of the committee.

The committee's report and recommendations are being compiled and will be made public some time in December, it was announced. Survey and investigation on which the report and findings will be based, has been in progress since shortly after the legislature adjourned last year.

The meeting Wednesday was with the advisory committee, composed of representatives of farm, industrial, and commercial groups, to review sections of the report already completed. Members of the legislative committee present included Senators Ackerman of Cleveland, Nickols of Tuscarawas County and Kumlner of Preble County and representatives Mooney of Hocking County, Ball of Scioto County and Wendt of Columbus.

CURTIS WILL SPEAK IN COSHOCTON, O.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 25.—Senator Charles Curtis, the Republican vice presidential nominee, stopped here briefly this morning enroute to Coshocton, O., where this afternoon he will formally open his Ohio campaign.

Upon his arrival in Coshocton Senator Curtis will be requested to answer two questions propounded by the Ohio Independent Agricultural league. The questions deal with the Salt Creek Oil case and the McNary-Haugen farm bill.

The Republican vice presidential nominee will continue his barnstorming tour of Ohio tomorrow with addresses at Columbus, Clinton and Mt. Vernon. His last Ohio speech will be at Cleveland, Saturday, before he goes to Detroit for a speech that night.

In a talk with newspaper men at Rochester, N. Y., Curtis said: "I do not consider prohibition an issue; the only issue in this campaign is the continued prosperity of the American people."

CHRYSLER ON BOARD
WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Walter P. Chrysler, automobile manufacturer, obtained permission from the interstate commerce commission today to be a director of the Erie Railroad.

DIES AT FUNERAL
NEWARK, O., Oct. 25.—Mrs. Sarah E. Winters, 75, dropped dead here yesterday as she was preparing to attend the funeral of her brother, W. H. Hughes, a second sister, Mrs. Martha Wood, is seriously ill.

PLANE PASSES OVER WICHITA ON FLIGHT WITH FLEETING SUN

Flyers Already Hold
West-East Time Flight
Record

WICHITA, Kansas, Oct. 25.—The monoplane Yankee Doodle, in which Harry Tucker, millionaire sportsman and Captain C. B. D. Collyer, pilot, are attempting to set a record for a non-stop flight from New York to Los Angeles, passed over Wichita shortly before five a. m. today.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Somewhere high up over the mid-western prairies, the Lockheed-Vega monoplane "Yankee Doodle" sped today towards the Rockies and its greatest hazard on an attempted non-stop flight from Atlantic to Pacific.

The trim white monoplane took off from Roosevelt Field, L. I., yesterday at 4:15 p. m. at a terrific pace despite its heavy load of 520 gallons of gasoline and twenty-five gallons of engine oil.

Captain C. B. D. Collyer, joint holder of the round-the-world speed record, was piloting the airplane, and Harry Tucker, Los Angeles, sportsman, was passenger.

The Yankee Doodle has a cruising speed of 135 miles an hour and can develop a maximum of 170.

Now the most famous of transcontinental racing veterans, the Yankee Doodle is making its third bid for an ocean-to-ocean record not satisfied with already holding the west-to-east record attained when it sped from Los Angeles to New York in eighteen hours and fifty-eight minutes last August.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The monoplane Yankee Doodle, which took off late yesterday from New York on a non-stop flight to Los Angeles, had not been reported over the middle west early today.

According to the time made on the Yankee Doodle's transcontinental hop recently, the plane should have been flying over Kansas at 5 a. m. (C. S. T.).

REPUBLICAN CLAIM TALLIES 301 VOTES FOR PARTY NOMINEE

Massachusetts, New York
And Jersey Not Included.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Republican headquarters, the United Press learned today, privately claims a basic minimum of 301 electoral votes for Herbert Hoover.

It believes the total will be even larger.

In headquarters is a large tally sheet, marked and remarked, on which the Republicans' hopes are listed. Just what states the national committee claims for Hoover was not revealed to the United Press though it is known the forty-five New York votes, eighteen Massachusetts and fourteen New Jersey are not included in the 301 claim.

The committee is known to be hopeful of adding these three Atlantic seaboard strongholds, as well as Virginia, Florida, North Carolina and Wisconsin to the 301 minimum. Of Wisconsin, the committee is not entirely confident, it is said, despite leaders' reports that that state is "in the bag."

The committee contends concerning the above mentioned states only that it expects a majority of their votes.

Should the fortunes of war throw all that ground to the Republicans, then their total, with the 301 minimum, would reach 421 votes.

There are 531 electoral votes, with 266 needed for election.

Hoover in New York this week uttered 5/5 prediction of victory, saying that unless Republican leaders became overconfident the party would win on Nov. 6.

Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee sometime ago estimated Smith would have 309 electoral votes. Chairman Work of the Republican national committee has kept silent, hitherto, as to statistics and was known to hold privately that Hoover will have a safe margin on election day.

CARDINAL DIES

HIBBERT JURY DISAGREES

JURORS DISMISSED AFTER FAILING TO REACH AGREEMENT

Case Re-Assigned For
December 7 When
Jury Discharged

Trial of James T. Hibbert, proprietor of the Bijou Theater, 19 Green St., on an indictment charging violation of the Sunday "blue" laws by exhibiting motion pictures on Sunday, was reassigned by the court for December 7 when a jury in Common Pleas Court, which heard the case Wednesday, reported it was unable to reach an agreement after nearly five hours of deliberation.

Still hopelessly "hung" at 9 o'clock Wednesday night after being in almost constant deliberation since 3:15 o'clock when the case was received, the jury was discharged by Judge R. L. Gowdy.

In the custody of a deputy sheriff, the jurors were taken to dinner at 6 p. m. and returned an hour later to resume consideration of the case.

It was reported that the jury took a total of twenty-three ballots and it was also unofficially reported that at one time the twelve jurors stood nine to three and finally elected to one for conviction. A unanimous verdict was necessary for conviction. Because the extra petit jury venire of twenty persons was nearly exhausted before a jury was obtained for the Hibbert trial, the jury trial of Henry L. Binder, proprietor of the Orpheum Theater, on a similar indictment, scheduled to begin Thursday, was postponed until sometime in December.

The second Hibbert trial was also re-assigned for December because Judge Gowdy will be absent from the bench during November, presiding on the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court bench at Cleveland under assignment of Carrington T. Marshall, chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court.

In Hibbert's trial Wednesday, the defense offered no evidence, other than the claim motion pictures cannot be shown as a theatrical performance, and confined itself to cross-examination of witnesses and arguments to the jury.

Testimony of the following witnesses introduced by Prosecutor J. Carl Marshall was taken: Patrolmen Fred Jones and J. E. Craig, Mrs. R. R. Snodgrass, a member of the Christian citizenship committee of the Greene County W. C. T. U., which prosecuted the charge; Miss Katherine Hibbert, Clarence Brennan, operator of the motion picture machine, and Forest Gallizer, an usher. The last three declined to answer questions with regard to their employment in the theater at the time the charge was made July 1.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH ENDS CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The Episcopal Church general convention cleared up odds and ends of work early today in preparation for adjournment this afternoon.

The formal election of a mission, archbishop to Nevada—reported to be Rev. Thomas Jenkins, of Minneapolis, Ore.—was the only major topic before the convention.

PLANE PASSES OVER WICHITA ON FLIGHT WITH FLEETING SUN

Flyers Already Hold
West-East Time Flight
Record

WICHITA, Kansas, Oct. 25.—The monoplane Yankee Doodle, in which Harry Tucker, millionaire sportsman and Captain C. B. D. Collyer, pilot, are attempting to set a record for a non-stop flight from New York to Los Angeles, passed over Wichita shortly before five a. m. today.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Somewhere high up over the mid-western prairies, the Lockheed-Vega monoplane "Yankee Doodle" sped today towards the Rockies and its greatest hazard on an attempted non-stop flight from Atlantic to Pacific.

The trim white monoplane took off from Roosevelt Field, L. I., yesterday at 4:15 p. m. at a terrific pace despite its heavy load of 520 gallons of gasoline and twenty-five gallons of engine oil.

Captain C. B. D. Collyer, joint holder of the round-the-world speed record, was piloting the airplane, and Harry Tucker, Los Angeles, sportsman, was passenger.

The Yankee Doodle has a cruising speed of 135 miles an hour and can develop a maximum of 170.

Now the most famous of transcontinental racing veterans, the Yankee Doodle is making its third bid for an ocean-to-ocean record, not satisfied with already holding the west-to-east record attained when it sped from Los Angeles to New York in eighteen hours and fifty-eight minutes last August.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The monoplane Yankee Doodle, which took off late yesterday from New York on a non-stop flight to Los Angeles, had not been reported over the middle west early today.

According to the time made on the Yankee Doodle's transcontinental hop recently, the plane should have been flying over Kansas at 5 a. m. (C. S. T.)

REPUBLICAN CLAIM TALLIES 301 VOTES FOR PARTY NOMINEE

Massachusetts, New York
And Jersey Not Included.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Republican headquarters, the United Press learned today, privately claims a basic minimum of 301 electoral votes for Herbert Hoover.

It believes the total will be even larger.

In headquarters is a large tally sheet, marked and remarked, on which the Republicans' hopes are listed. Just what states the national committee claims for Hoover was not revealed to the United Press though it is known the forty-five New York votes, eighteen Massachusetts and fourteen New Jersey are not included in the 301 claim.

The committee is known to be hopeful of adding these three Atlantic seaboard strongholds, as well as Virginia, Florida, North Carolina and Wisconsin. The committee is not entirely confident, it is said, despite leaders' reports that that state is "in the bag."

The committee contends concerning the above mentioned states only that it expects a majority of their votes.

Should the fortunes of war throw all that around to the Republicans, when their total, with the 301 minimum, would reach 421 votes.

There are 531 electoral votes, with 266 needed for election.

Hoover in New York this week uttered his first prediction of victory, saying that unless Republican leaders became overconfident the party would win on Nov. 6.

Chairman Raskob of the Democratic national committee sometime ago estimated Smith would have 309 electoral votes. Chairman Work of the Republican national committee has kept silent, hitherto, as to statistics though he is known to hold privately that Hoover will have a safe margin on election day.

CARDINAL DIES

ROME, Oct. 25.—Gaetano Cardinal De Lai, vice-dean of the Sacred college of Cardinals, died today. He was seventy-five and was created a cardinal in 1911, with the title of bishop of Sabina.

FROSH REVOLT AT TASK OF MAKING PADDLES

Freshmen at Antioch College are in open rebellion. They do not mind being hazed but when it comes to furnishing the sophomores with the means to this end, they want to do it their own way.

To do or not to do, or rather to make or not to make—that is the question confronting the Antioch freshmen.

The annual pajama parade will be held Friday night and each freshman's price of admission will be a hard, elongated paddle. The sophomores demand that each freshman bring his own paddle which is to be handed over to a benevolent sophomore.

In past years it has been customary for parties of freshmen to forage and explore the wood piles in and around Yellow Springs. A patient freshman whittling away with a resigned look on his countenance has been a familiar sight.

But as far as the present freshman class is concerned, "them days is gone forever." The frosh are getting independent. They assert that first-class paddles will be made to order for each member of the class, but there's the rub. The freshmen are happy. But the sophomores are indignant.

"It is wrong, horribly wrong," protests William Lloyd, president of the sophomore class. "Our fathers never did it. We didn't do it. There is no reason why they should. How hard we worked, how tired we were, whittling out paddles for our chastisement. It was punishment itself. And now these young and progressive freshmen intend to do away with the entire job. I cannot countenance it. I forbid it."

Warren Coolbaugh, president of the rebellious freshmen, shrugs his shoulders. "This is an age of progress," he exclaimed. "Why take the time to potter about woodpiles and make paddles that will be used on us? A sawmill is far better equipped to do it. We have to live with the times."

And so the stage is set for the pajama parade Friday night.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Konjola

This Is NOT A Paid Endorsement

To the makers of Konjola:— "My system consumes a vast amount of caffeine, contained in coffee, so at least four weeks of each year I have selected Konjola to rebuild my system. This remarkable remedy was a great assistance to me in establishing the world's record of 280 eight-ounce cups of coffee in four and one-half hours, and 80 cups in one hour. I held this unique title in 1926 and 1927. In the first five months of 1928 I consumed 8,665 cups of coffee. I am strongly recommending Konjola because this medicine brings life energy to my whole body. I have toured the world and frankly admit that one of the greatest reasons I can continue in my profession is due to the benefits derived from Konjola." (Signed) ALBERT A. BAKER, (World's Champion Coffee Drinker) 1227 Prospect Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

What is Konjola? What does it do?

Konjola is a compound of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs. Konjola cleanses the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It brings surprising relief in cases of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness, purifying and invigorating the entire system. This advanced medicine has benefited thousands who had found no relief in any other treatment.

The class having caught the most "fish" in the fishing contest will be awarded its prize.

All children of Trinity M. E. Church wishing to attend the Greene County Junior Rally at Cedarville Saturday, are to meet at the home of the Rev. L. A. Washburn, Saturday morning at 9:30.

Cedar Grange of Cedarville will entertain Pomona Grange next Wednesday and each family is asked to bring well-filled baskets, instead of a covered dish as previously announced.

Mrs. Donald Legg and son, of Detroit, Mich., are visiting Mrs. Dora Legg, W. Main St.

Woman's Missionary Society, First Presbyterian Church, will be received at the home of Mrs. H. Eavey, Friday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Mrs. D. D. Jones will lead the devotion and Miss Zeila Soward will sing. Chapter Five of the study book will be in charge of Mrs. W. E. Cox. Assisting Mrs. Eavey will be: Mrs. Violet Gowdy, Mrs. John McClain and Mrs. Anna Haverstick.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thompson, 249 Chestnut St., are the parents of a daughter, born Thursday morning. Mrs. Thompson was before marriage Miss Betty Scofield.

Dr. H. C. Messenger is leaving Thursday night for Pittsburgh, Pa., to attend the central states meeting of the Mediatrix Society. He will also visit the Children's Hospital at Pittsburgh and will be gone Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Weiss, Xenia, were guests at a birthday party, Tuesday evening, given in honor of Mr. C. J. Wietzel, at the Wietzel home in Oakwood, Dayton.

Trinity Choir will meet for practice Friday evening at 7 o'clock. A rehearsal of the entire chorus will be held at 7:30 and all members who expect to sing in the cantata Sunday evening, must be present for this last practice.

Miss Marion Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Snyder, 38 Chestnut St., was operated on for appendicitis at a local hospital Wednesday morning.

OHIO OPEN GOLFERS ENTER SECOND DAY

DAYTON, O., Oct. 25.—Fifty-nine of the seventy-one golfers who yesterday started in pursuit of the Ohio open championship at the Miami Valley Country Club here were back at the course today for the second and last thirty-six holes of the tourney, hoping the cold winds which swept the course yesterday would be missing today.

These winds caused scores to run higher than normal yesterday when Jack Thompson, professional of the Highland Country Club, Cleveland, led the field with a total of 146 with a pair of fine rounds of 72 and 74.

Julian Blanton, another Cleveland who likewise shot a 72 in the morning, also slipped a bit in the afternoon, taking a 75 to give him a total of 147 and second place on the first day's play.

First prize for the champion should be a professional, will be $150. Second and third money is $100 and third $75. Low amateurs are to be well rewarded.

DANCE WILL FOLLOW CARNIVAL OF BAND

Details for Xenia's fourth annual Hallowe'en celebration being sponsored by the Xenia Municipal Band, are rapidly nearing completion. It is announced.

The celebration will take place Wednesday night, October 31, and will be featured by a big street parade in the evening, followed by street dancing. The judge's stand on the Court House square will be used for dance contests and a section of E. Main St., will be roped off and old-fashioned dancing held in the inclosure.

Following the affair, a masquerade dance will be held at the K. of P. Hall, it is announced. The plan is meeting with an enthusiastic response from local merchants and a list of prizes will be awarded for the best costumed individuals.

SPRING VALLEY

FRIENDS SURPRISE WITH BIRTHDAY PARTY

A pleasant surprise was planned at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Whittington, Sunday, when forty-three friends reminded Mrs. Whittington of her birth anniversary. A bountiful dinner was served, and the party was a most enjoyable one. Refreshments were served late in the afternoon. Those who attended the party were: Mrs. V. G. Martin, Mrs. Everett Manor, Mrs. Elmer Huston, Mrs. Donald McPherson, Mrs. Lewis Spencer, Mrs. Earle Confer, Mrs. Lynn Wilson, Mrs. George Baldwin and the hostess, Mrs. Robinson.

Those present were: the Rev. S. L. Brill and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atkinson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Burgess Crumrine and family, Mrs. Charles Grandin and son, Mr. and Mrs. John Acton, Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis and family, Mrs. Orie Harness and two daughters, Mrs. Newcomer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Newcomer, Mr. Wilfred Early, little Jane Lou Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Whittington and family.

FIRST M. E. CLASS HOLDS SOCIAL MEETING.

Mrs. M. A. Sutton, Mrs. Emma Eley, Mrs. Letitia Brown and Mrs. J. A. Bales were hostesses to the Women's Bible Class of the First Methodist Church, in the church parlors Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Ima Marshall had charge of the worship service, with the subject "Awakening Day." Mrs. D. E. Turner, president, conducted the business session. A splendid program was in charge of Mrs. Walter Plomerfelt, Mrs. J. F. Geizer, Mrs. John Bradford and Mrs. Agnes Hurley. Those taking part were: Mr. Roy Siefert, pianist; Miss Zella Soward, soloist, and Mrs. William Weiss, reader.

A clever "style show" of long, long ago, was given by nine masked women of the class. Halloween refreshments were served.

Mr. Howard McClure, New Burlington, is being treated by a Xenia physician for a severe injury to his left eye, caused when it was struck by a small piece of steel while he was at work in his garage.

Stumps for Smith

Mrs. Lynn Wilson was awarded the high score prize. Delicious refreshments were served late in the afternoon. Those who attended the party were: Mrs. V. G. Martin, Mrs. Everett Manor, Mrs. Elmer Huston, Mrs. Donald McPherson, Mrs. Lewis Spencer, Mrs. Earle Confer, Mrs. Lynn Wilson, Mrs. George Baldwin and the hostess, Mrs. Robinson.

BOYS ENTERTAINED AT HALLOWEEN PARTY

Richard Luce, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Luce, Hill St., entertained eight youngsters, pupils of the sixth grade at Spring Hill School, with a Halloween party at his home, Wednesday night. A witch's kettle was arranged in the yard and the boys cooked wieners about the fire.

ELKS TO ENTERTAIN HALLOWEEN REVELERS.

Invitations have been issued by Xenia Lodge, No. 668, B. P. O. Elks, for the first of its season's dances, "The Halloween Frolic," Wednesday evening, October 31, at the Elks' Club.

Dancing will be enjoyed from nine to one. The committee includes: Messrs. I. Friedman, R. C. Ferris, James T. Savage.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Herr and two daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Connor spent Sunday and Monday in Cincinnati, the guests of Mrs. Herr's sister, Mrs. Philip Seitz of Price Hill.

Miss Elizabeth Stout, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Stout, Hill St., is a member of the choir of forty voices of Western College for Women, which will give a concert at the new Church of the Covenant, Springfield, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Employees of The Jobe Bros. store enjoyed another of their social gatherings, Tuesday evening, at the store. Dinner was served on the first floor and during the repast, short talks were made by different employees.

Mrs. E. C. Moorman, N. King St., will attend the annual concert of the Dayton Welfare Association for the Blind, Thursday night at Memorial Hall, Dayton. Her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall, will sing in the concert.

Adults of the First Baptist Sunday School and the young men and women of Mrs. J. R. Lunsford's class, will be entertained Friday evening at 7:30 at the Baptist parsonage, with a Halloween party. Members of these classes are most cordially invited and to attend masked. Those who do not mask will be required to pay a forfeit.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

OUR GOD—And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the Lord; we have waited for him, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation.—Isa. 25:9.

HANDLING BIG PROBLEMS

Mr. Hoover has been present at all Cabinet councils for years and is conversant with every pending problem.

He has shown himself more American than partisan. He did not refuse to serve President Wilson because the latter was a Democrat.

Fourteen years ago Mr. Hoover laid aside his personal prospects, and clipped 14 years out of the middle of his life which he devoted unselfishly and satisfactorily to international humanity and American public service.

He has never manipulated political wires for any one of his previous positions, but in each case has been drafted for efficiency.

He was asked to feed the Belgians. It was a gigantic task. Every bit of food had to be brought by ship over mined and carefully guarded waters. This meant that to get ships through the North Sea to Belgium, this great persistent American had to accomplish an armistice in the North Sea, and had to call for the maps of the mine fields from both fighting factions. He had to cut his way through jungles of red tape, governmental and military. Yet he accomplished his task.

In the creation and extension of the Department of Commerce he acted as general sales agent for American production in European markets weakened or destroyed by the war. Yet some way or other this man kept the markets eager for American products.

We need a General Manager who can continue to create and secure markets at home and abroad for the whole of our production.

TORTURING TOURISTS

Some 300,000 American tourists, who were abroad this year, unite in the opinion that the most aggravating circumstances of their journey was the business of being inspected by customs officials upon their reentry into the United States.

Anxious to get to their homes as quickly and with as little fuss as possible, returning tourists come down the gangplank only to be herded in line to wait what seems endless hours until red tape eventually catches up with them and their baggage is poked into and disarranged.

It is not the individual inspectors with whom the travelers have their quarrel so much as it is with the system. The government says it is necessary and the tourist says it is a nuisance. Whatever it is it is becoming more of it as ocean travel increases.

Not from government agents, who seem to have a genius only for making themselves obnoxious, but from a steamship company official comes a remedy. His plan is for the government to maintain customs officials on board ship so the poking, prying and general muzzing up of baggage and tempers will be over with before the ship docks. The advantages of the plan are obvious.

Common sense in years past has little part in the credo of bureaucrats, and the customs system is one of their pet playthings. But perhaps it is not too much to hope for the adoption of a more agreeable plan.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

A YANKEE ABROAD

Wilfred Jones, an American young man, is back from a term of study in the Imperial university in Tokio, Japan. He has had a valuable year's experience in the Orient. What a fine thing it would be for the cause of improved international relations if scores of American boys could be students in universities in the far east. The Rhodes' scholarships in Oxford have done much for the cause of American-British understanding.

THE IMPOSSIBLE

It appears that the impossible has happened. What seems to be a reputable dispatch carries the news that a plumber, speeding to work, was arrested in Indianapolis for fast driving. The judge, astonished, freed the suspect. The poor plumber—or the rich plumber, whichever it is—has to stand for many jokes. But the fact is that civilization without a plumber would be an uncomfortable process.

A CLOWN

Antonio Peri, occupation, clown, jumped out of an eighth floor window in Chicago and was killed. He was out of work. Life was too much for him. All he asked was a job to be funny and make folk laugh. It is hard to judge, always, whether life is light or serious. You can't tell by just looking on.

There is too great a chance that hurting somebody's feelings may be breaking somebody's heart.

ISSUES

There is probably a lot of waste talk about issues in every campaign. Not that issues aren't important. Almost everybody will admit they are. But people don't vote on issues when there are candidates to vote for. They vote for men. They are inevitably attracted or repelled by personality—even by the reported personality of men they have never seen or are never likely to see. Even politicians, supposed to be wise, seem to forget how human the human race is. The politicians make a big fuss about issues. And few people care, to the point of letting it influence their votes. The battles of the world have been won by loyalty to leadership, notwithstanding all the talk about loyalty to principles.

GETTING THE FUN

Strange that men who plan to do large things in their will give away money to good causes—do not give more of it while living, so they can have the best of all rewards—the pleasure of seeing others made happy by their acts.

NEW YORK. — Poison booze deaths actually are frightening New York. Energetic reporters have found that even the "best" bootleg joints serve poison. In 287 days deaths from bad liquor totaled 428. Autos killed $35 in the same time. New York is the battleground of the nation.

More than 2,000,000 New Yorkers expect to vote for president, according to final registration lists. No other city in the world can boast so many voters. As a matter of fact, few states can. New York's registration figure this year is 2,024,000.

New York man be far from the cattle grazing country, but the Long Island railroad was fined $100 in federal court at Brooklyn for mistreating them. Nevertheless, the railroad was charged with keeping the bovines, consigned to a slaughter house, 38 hours without unloading them for rest, water and feed.

All is not glitter on Broadway. Harry Dix, 24, of Roanoke, Va., collapsed from hunger in the heart of the White Way. Hundreds stopped to aid him, but he was too weak for anything except a glass of milk. For days he had peered into restaurant windows.

Mussolini is learning English. Says Miss Lillian Gibson, English newspaper woman—and she has been doing the teaching. Miss Gibson is here from Italy to help on scenery for a prospective production of "Machbeth." Il Duce reads aloud in English to Miss Gibson, and she checks up on his pronunciation she explains.

Wild stories are being told about night clubs since a girl died from a beating in one. She was protesting the treatment of another girl.

One story states how a young man with his girl found he hadn't sufficient cash with him to meet the exorbitant costs. The manager came to him in the dressing room to learn whether all the money the young man had was all he had. It was. The manager invited the "guest" into another room to talk it over. There the guest was beaten up so that he will be crippled for life.

Visitors to New York, go to night clubs at your own risk. No joint of the wild and woolly days of the old west was half so bad.

A few days ago there was a brief notice in the papers that Henry Siegel was critically ill of heart disease in a Hackensack, N. J., hospital. Twenty years ago that item would have created a sensation. For then he was a merchant prince.

He was president of the Siegel Stores corporation, capitalized at $10,275,000, and controlling Siegel, Cooper & Co. in Chicago, the Big Store, the Fourteenth Street Store and Simpson-Crawford Co. in New York, and Henry Siegel & Co. in Boston.

His holdings reverse 15 years ago. Broken, he moved to Rutherford, N. J. Lately he ran a small haberdashery shop on Main street, Hackensack.

A surprising amount of our regular consumption of goods might be dispensed with. Men could dress as simply as army doughboys and still be both comfortable and happy. Women would look just as pretty if their garments were always as plain and inexpensive as those of a trained nurse. But add human tendency is ever to add complications to existence instead of to simplify it. Just recently I heard a woman say that she couldn't go to the country for the summer but must remain in her hot city apartment because she couldn't risk losing the laundress who now washes her little daughter's dainty white dresses.

FAIR QUESTION

A lecturer on art spoke before a group of men in an industrial city, urging upon them the duty of trying to put more beauty into their surroundings. At the close of the talk, a leading citizen came up to have a few words with the lecturer. "I enjoyed your remarks," he said, "though I didn't agree with you. The fact is that we have no time here for beauty. The prosperity of this town is due to hard-boiled, practical men."

"Yet," retorted the lecturer, smiling, "you yourself are seeking beauty, according to your lights. You may not have found it, but I know you are aiming at what you think makes for greater attractiveness."

"No, you're wrong," insisted the hard-boiled man. "I'm not interested in beauty."

"Then," said the lecturer, "if you don't mind my being so personal, will you please tell me why you have dyed your whiskers?"

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

To be in society is a bore. To be out of it is a tragedy.—Wilde.

WASHINGTON.—Society officials and otherwise, is hot-footing it for Washington unusually early this year to be on hand for the opening of the earliest "season" in the memory of the oldest dowager in the capital's smart set.

The White House gives the word—"go."

When the presidential family begins to entertain, all the swell people in town have to follow suit to stay in the swim.

And when the White House gets through, so does everybody else, because, after the season's final formal function at the executive mansion, the whole place, socially speaking, flaps out. Nothing, after that, counts—not in the society pages, anyway.

Until the Coolidges' day, the lid never was off much before the New Year's reception—which is not a social event in itself, but an affair for the hot polloi, but which served as a kind of starting signal, so to speak.

The Coolidges, however, evidently liked to get it over with, and set the program ahead nearly a month.

This time they have broken all records.

The cabinet dinner invariably the initial blow-out—is set for November 8.

Mark that date—November 8—only the second day after election!

If the vote is close, the dinner will hardly know whether Herbert Hoover or Al Smith has won so soon.

The secretaries who have been canning out in the sticks will have to hump themselves to arrive here in time—and to miss a cabinet dinner is a terrible thing—especially to a secretary to whom, like some of our present bunch, it may be the last one.

The White House dinners, however, lack somewhat in popular appeal—the attendance necessarily is so small.

The receptions are the shindigs that stir Washington up.

The amount of gold lace and braid, of diamond-encrusted decorations and of jewell-hilted swords to be seen at that reception, on many shoulders and booz-ums, and clanking on many thighs, are a sight for an assayer and a lapidary—and that's a fact.

A foreign ambassador, or even a minister, is a pretty gorgeous individual when he gets himself up regardless, but some of their military and naval attaches—oh boy!

Our own army and navy reception?

Forget it! Our outfits are more moth-eaten than those lightning bugs from overseas.

Now that that proves anything as to what might happen in a rout.

The judicial reception is the most awesome of the lot.

Give a grave! To see all those supreme court justices lumber in.

And to reflect—as their Ethiopian door-keeper once aid—that there's nobody to appeal to, from them, but God!

The congressional reception is not very recherche. The senators are all right—but lost, among 435 ordinary representatives.

MAINTAINING RESULTS OF A GOOD VACATION

Now that vacation days are over, the chances are you have returned to work with new interests, new vigor, and a will to meet whatever comes with courage and initiative. It is a splendid state of mind to be in, and the great pity is that instead of taking advantage of this flying start we have acquired, we lapse again into the old bad habits of overwork, overeating, insufficient sleep and poor diet, so that by the end of the season, we are right back again where we started from.

Let us determine this year not to lose the good health which we have just gained. Let us make ourselves firm and solemn resolutions to the effect that bad habits are not again going to overcome us, nor are we going to weakly return to the old and wrong way of living.

Whether your vacation time has been passed at the mountains or at the seashore, or whether you have simply remained at home and put all thoughts of the rush and bustle of business out of your mind, doesn't matter in the least, so long as at the end of your short period of recreation you have come back to face life with the strength of a sound body and a healthy mind.

Vacation time, if it has meant to you what it should, has turned you back into the simple ways of living. You have probably slept well, eaten well of fresh vegetables, rich country milk, fresh eggs and all those other summer-time luxuries. You have taken sufficient exercise in the open air, until your wind has been improved and your lungs have been taught to breathe deeply, in a word, you have probably come as close to right living as it is possible for any of us in this day and age.

We live in. Naturally, all of these good habits have reacted favorably upon your health. It is up to you now to maintain physical perfection, or at least that portion of it which you have attained, or slide right back into a negative state of health and the listlessness and laziness which accompanies it.

Determine this year to keep to the A B C rules of right living. In the season just passed, you have found it was no hardship at all to go to bed early, to eat three sensible meals a day and avoid the rich and fat-making foods which destroy your digestive apparatus. Keep up the good work. Remember that good food, regular exercise and sound sleep will keep your body healthy, your mind active and your face beautiful.

I really believe that if you

LUNCHEON
Cheese and Bread Omelet
Baked Apples Milk or Tea

DINNER

Fried Fillet or Haddock
Creamed Cauliflower
French Fried Potatoes
Tomato Salad Lemon Pie
Coffee
Isn't the cheese and stale bread omelet a good luncheon dish? It will help you to finish up stale odds and ends of bread, if you are one of the housewives who is troubled with the bread problem.

Today's Recipes

Cheese and Bread Omelette—To two cups of stale bread soaked in two cups of hot milk, add one cup of grated cheese and beat. To this mixture add three well-beaten eggs, season, put in a buttered omelet pan and cook slowly.

Baked Apples—Wash, core and pare apples, then fill cavities with the following mixture made of half a cup of cooked rice and one-fourth cup raisins. Pour over the apples a syrup made of two cups of brown sugar to one and a half cups of water. Bake in hot oven.

Fried Fillet of Haddock—Wash fillet and spread with prepared mustard. Roll in corn meal and fry.

Suggestions

"Dressing" Up the Cereal
When plain cream and sugar on hot cereals get to the monotonous, grownups and children will enjoy these variations. On each serving sometimes place a lump of butter (which melts immediately on the hot cereal) and then sprinkle it with powdered sugar.

Also put a spoonful of preserves in the bottom of each dish, and cover with cereal.

Non-Sticking Hands

When making pop corn balls always turn on the cold water faucet and allow the water to run over the inside of the hands before pressing the corn into balls. By wetting the hands in this way before making each ball, the corn does not stick to the hands and it can be firmly pressed into nicely rounded balls.

Macaroni Rarebit

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Recipe.)

Into the frying pan put one tablespoon butter; when hot, add one cupful of cold boiled macaroni, cut fine. To it add one cup grated cheese and two beaten eggs. Dust with pepper, a little salt, and cook until set. Serves three.

A few weeks more and some of our highest colleges will begin scoring moral victories and losing grid games.

would look in the mirror on the day you come home from your vacation and resolutely determine to keep the fresh coloring in your cheeks, the firm contours of your flesh and the bright, active sparkle in your eyes, next year's vacation would not find you a neurotic wreck that most of us degenerate into during the long year.

SUN BATHS AND AIR BATHS ARE VALUABLE TO EVERYONE

Air Baths

The importance to the health of a daily water scrub and cleansing bath, followed by a cold shower (for most) is pretty generally known. In late years, the importance of sun baths is gaining wide recognition. But not many realize that air baths are also of value. In fact, probably a large part of the value of sunlight baths is the air bath which it entails.

Not all of us are situated so we can take air baths of any duration, but by a little thought we can get short ones. After our scrub and cold shower, for instance, many things can be done in the nude before dressing—teeth brushed, nails manicured, shaved (if we're men) three to five minutes of brushing and massaging the scalp, etc. Our setting up exercise time can also be utilized.

The value of the air baths for those suffering from pulmonary (lung) tuberculosis in which the diaphragm or artificial sunlight is not advisable, in most cases, is written up by Dr. E. S. Bullock in the Journal of Outdoor Life, as follows:

"But air baths, let me be equally emphatic, are of great importance, and the time will certainly come when, in favorably located institutions at all times of the year, and in others less favorably situated part of the year, our tuberculous patients will be stripped of all clothing but a breech-cloth and given air baths. Patients so exposed do not take cold easily, are not so dependent upon artificial heat, appear better, feel better, eat better, and, briefly, recover faster and more surely."

The Water Balance

Mrs. M. lost 35 pounds by Petersizing but now she has struck a snag. For 24 days she was on a strict 1,200 calorie diet, sometimes less, and ended up just where she started. 168 pounds of solid flesh and no flabby fat. She is 42, 5 ft. 6 in. 1-2 inches tall, heavy bones and solid muscles. She swims every day and she means swimming, not sitting around in a bathing suit. Cuts her lawn, cares for her own garden, walks and plays golf. Her friends say she looks younger than her age, but she believes she would look 10 years younger still if not for her figure.

Living and Loving

ARE YOU UNHAPPY AT HOME? SOME DAY YOU MAY LONG FOR IT

I often wonder if the young people who write to me complaining of their homes will not, in after years, look back to the days they spent there with longing and regret. Of course there are unhappy homes where there is misunderstanding and constant quarreling from which the children gladly go forth to homes of their own, or even to boarding houses, finding more congenial surroundings. But most of the annoyances of family life are really so trivial that they disappear from one's mind after one gets away, and only the memory of love and the sheltering arms of father and mother remain.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl of 16, and am allowed to run around with my friends. My mother will hardly allow me to go anywhere or do anything. Two boys called me up several times and my mother took out the phone. I would love to talk to my mother and find out what she means, or would you let me go to have older sister, and when she was 15 she was allowed to go to dances and have her boy friends at the house. She is married and seems very happy. Do you think my mother has something against me?"

"BABE."

I think your mother thinks of you as her baby, and hates the idea of your ever going away from her, and so discourages anything that gives you outside interests. It is really selfish of her, but natural, and the very best thing you can do is to talk to her and tell her frankly how you feel and that instead of keeping you to herself she will enlist your sister in your behalf, too, and show your mother, in every way, how you love her and want to do only what is right and proper.

Waiting: The boys were the rude ones, leaving you girls while they talked to the other boys. No apology is necessary, but if you see the boys again you can speak in a friendly way to show you are not angry.

"Me and My Shadow" written again, as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I find I am not the only lonesome one, for I read in your column that a girl that was about in the same shoes I am in is happy now. She signs herself 'Happy Girl.' I hope she will let me know how to overcome lonesomeness, for I seldom feel happy. She wanted to know how 'Me and My Shadow' is. Well, I am so, please, Happy Girl, let me know how you get your happiness and I will try your experience if you will write to me in the Living and Loving column."

"Me AND MY SHADOW."

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl in my teens, and I am in love with a boy four years my senior. There has been a little misunderstanding for which I am to blame. Do you think it would be proper for me to call him on the phone and ask him to call that I might explain?"

"BROWN EYES."

Yes.

Peter's Adventure

The Runaway Waves

"Guz-zug-zug-swish-swish!" The water gurgled in glee. Now I am mightier than are you, oh banks! You can hold me no longer. I am running away from you, and what a good time I shall have! I shall flow in any and every direction—no more running in a straight course, whether I wish to or not! Now I shall see what lies just above your tops. Oh! Trees and rocks and a queer prickly bush! Oh dear me, how happy I am! What fun it is to ripple out here in the open!

"Sacred Isis and his brother Scarlet (for these were the names the people of Egypt had given to White-Coat and Red-Feathers), flew to the very top of a tall palm tree and sat there too amazed to say a word.

"And the water spread and spread until all the ground around, which had been so dry, had been turned into a great lake, and here and there clumps of trees rose out of it like islands.

"I say, brother Scarlet, it seems to me that we better move further inland. I like the water, and so do you, but it would be far more pleasant for use to know what we can depend upon. I never saw anything like this before. Who knows but soon the water will be over the top of this palm tree.

"I'm hungry as a buzzard, and I'll bet you a lizard that the water has brought a lot of tidbits up on the land. Right here it is too deep for any one but a diver to find them, but let's fly to the shallow and go fishing. I am just dying to get my feet wet. I don't know when I have been out of the ripples so long."

Without waiting for his brother's answer Sacred Isis started on his way, and, of course, there was nothing for Scarlet to do but to follow him.

"Sacred Isis had made a good guess—the shallows were full of delicious things to eat. There fat green frogs, juicy mollusks and any number of small snakes, and insects that had been taken, unawares by the flood before they could crawl to safety.

"Sacred Isis and his brother Scarlet ate and ate. To have seen them one would have thought they had never had a good meal before in their lives—and they never stopped until they simply could not swallow another thing.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

OUR GOD—And it shall be said in that day, Lo, this is our God; we have waited for him, and he will save us: this is the Lord; we have waited for him, we will be glad and rejoice in his salvation.—Isa. 25:9.

HANDLING BIG PROBLEMS

Mr. Hoover has been present at all Cabinet councils for years and is conversant with every pending problem.

He has shown himself more American than partisan. He did not refuse to serve President Wilson because the latter was a Democrat.

Fourteen years ago Mr. Hoover laid aside his personal prospects, and clipped 14 years out of the middle of his life which he devoted unselfishly and satisfactorily to international humanity and American public service.

He has never manipulated political wires for any one of his previous positions, but in each case has been drafted for efficiency.

He was asked to feed the Belgians. It was a gigantic task. Every bit of food had to be brought by ship over mined and carefully guarded waters. This meant that to get ships through the North Sea to Belgium, this great persistent American had to accomplish an armistice in the North Sea, and had to call for the maps of the mine fields from both fighting factions. He had to cut his way through jungles of red tape, governmental and military. Yet he accomplished his task.

In the creation and extension of the Department of Commerce he acted as general sales agent for American production in European markets weakened or destroyed by the war. Yet some way or other this man kept the markets eager for American products.

We need a General Manager who can continue to create and secure markets at home and abroad for the whole of our production.

TORTURING TOURISTS

Some 300,000 American tourists, who were abroad this year, unite in the opinion that the most aggravating circumstances of their journey was the business of being inspected by customs officials upon their reentry into the United States.

Anxious to get to their homes as quickly and with as little fuss as possible, returning tourists come down the gangplank only to be herded in line to wait what seems endless hours until red tape eventually catches up with them and their baggage is poked into and disarranged.

It is not the individual inspectors with whom the travelers have their quarrel so much as it is with the system. The government says it is necessary and the tourist says it is a nuisance. Whatever it is it is becoming more of it as ocean travel increases.

Not from government agents, who seem to have a genius only for making themselves obnoxious, but from a steamship company official comes a remedy. His plan is for the government to maintain customs officials on board ship so the poking, prying and general muzzing up of baggage and tempers will be over with before the ship docks. The advantages of the plan are obvious.

Common sense in years past has little part in the credo of bureaucrats, and the customs system is one of their pet playthings. But perhaps it is not too much to hope for the adoption of a more agreeable plan.

A YANKEE ABROAD

Wilfred Jones, an American young man, is back from a term of study in the Imperial University in Tokio, Japan. He has had a valuable year's experience in the Orient. What a fine thing it would be for the cause of improved international relations if scores of American boys could be students in universities in the far east. The Rhodes' scholarships in Oxford have done much for the cause of American-British understanding.

THE IMPOSSIBLE

It appears that the impossible has happened. What seems to be a reputable dispatch carries the news that a plumber, speeding to work, was arrested in Indianapolis for fast driving. The judge, astonished, freed the suspect. The poor plumber—or the rich plumber, whichever it is—has to stand for many jokes. But the fact is that civilization without a plumber would be an uncomfortable process.

A CLOWN

Antonio Peri, occupation, clown, jumped out of an eighth floor window in Chicago and was killed. He was out of work. Life was too much for him. All he asked was a job to be funny and make folk laugh. It is hard to judge, always, whether life is light or serious. You can't tell by just looking on.

There is too great a chance that hurting somebody's feelings may be breaking somebody's heart.

ISSUES

There is probably a lot of waste talk about issues in every campaign. Not that issues aren't important. Almost everybody will admit they are. But people don't vote on issues when there are candidates to vote for. They vote for men. They are inevitably attracted or repelled by personality—even by the reported personality of men they have never seen or are never likely to see. Even politicians, supposed to be wise, seem to forget how human the human race is. The politicians make a big fuss about issues. And few people care, to the point of letting it influence their votes. The battles of the world have been won by loyalty to leadership, notwithstanding all the talk about loyalty to principles.

GETTING THE FUN

It is a splendid state of mind to be in, and the great pity is that instead of taking advantage of this flying start we have acquired, we lapse again into the old bad habits of overwork, overworry, insufficient sleep and poor diet, so that by the end of the season, we are right back again where we started from.

Let us determine this year not to lose the good health which we have just gained. Let us make ourselves firm and solemn resolutions to the effect that bad habits are not again going to overcome us, nor are we going to weakly return to the old and wrong way of living.

Whether your vacation time has been passed at the mountains or at the seashore, or whether you have simply remained at home and put all thoughts of the rush and bustle of business out of your mind, doesn't matter in the least, so long as at the end of your short period of recreation you have come back to face life with the strength of a sound body and a healthy mind.

Vacation time, if it has meant to you what it should, has turned you back into the simple ways of living. You have probably slept well, eaten well of fresh vegetables, rich country milk, fresh eggs and all those other summer-time luxuries. You have taken sufficient exercise in the open air, until your wind has been improved and your lungs have been taught to breathe deeply of the invigorating air. In a word, you have probably come as close to right living as it is possible for any of us to in this day and age we live in. Naturally, all of these good habits have reacted favorably upon your health. It is up to you now to maintain physical perfection, or at least that portion of it which you have attained, or slide right back into a negative state of health and the listlessness and laziness which accompanies it.

Determine this year to keep to the A B C rules of right living. In the season just passed, you have found it was no hardship at all to go to bed early, to eat three sensible meals a day, and avoid the rich and fat-making foods which destroy your digestive apparatus. Keep up the good work. Remember that good food, regular exercise and sound sleep will keep your body healthy, your mind active and your face beautiful.

I really believe that if you

one of the biggest colleges will begin scoring moral victories and losing to a few games.

And the water spread and spread until all the ground around, which had been so dry, had been turned into a great lake, and here and there clumps of trees rose out of it like islands.

"I say, brother Scarlet, it seems to me that we better move further inland. I like the water, and so do you, but it won't be far more pleasant for use to know what we can depend upon. I never saw anything like this before. Who knows but soon the water will be over the top of this palm tree.

"Besides, I am as hungry as a buzzard, and I'll bet you a lizard that the water has brought a lot of tidbits up on the land. Right here it is too deep for any one but a diver to find them, but let's fly to the shallow and go fishing. I am just dying to get my feet wet. I don't know when I have been out of the ripples so long."

Without waiting for his brother's answer Scarlet flew started on his way, and of course, there was nothing for Scarlet to do but to follow him.

"Sacred this had made a good guess—the shallows were full of delicious things to eat. There fat green frogs, juicy mollusks and any number of small snakes and insects that had been taken, unaware by the flood before they could crawl to safety."

"Sacred this and his brother Scarlet ate and ate—to have seen them one would have thought they had never had a good meal before in their lives—and they never stopped until they slowly could not swallow another thing."

SUN BATHS AND AIR BATHS ARE VALUABLE TO EVERYONE

Air Baths

The importance to the health of a daily water scrub and cleansing bath, followed by a cold shower (for most) is pretty generally known. In late years, the importance of sun baths is gaining wide recognition. But not many realize that air baths are also of value. In fact, probably a large part of the value of sunlight baths is the air bath which it entails.

Not all of us are situated so we can take air baths of any duration, but by a little thought we can get short ones. After our scrub and cold shower, for instance, many things can be done in the nude before dressing—teeth brushed, nails manicured, shaved (if we're men) three to five minutes of brushing and massaging the scalp, etc. Our setting up exercise time can also be utilized.

The value of the air baths for those suffering from pulmonary (lung) tuberculosis in which the direct sunlight or artificial sunlight is not advisable, in most cases, is written up by Dr. E. S. Bullock in the Journal of Outdoor Life, as follows:

"...But air baths, let me be equally emphatic, are of great importance, and the time will certainly come when, in favorably located institutions at all times of the year, and in others less favorably situated part of the year, our tuberculous patients will be stripped of all clothing but a breech-cloth and given air baths. Patients so exposed do not take cold easily, are not so dependent upon artificial heat, appear better, feel better, eat better, and, briefly, recover faster and more surely."

The Water Balance

Mrs. M. lost 35 pounds by Petersizing but now she has struck a snag. For 24 days she was on a strict 1,200 calorie diet, sometimes less, and ended up just where she started. 168 pounds of solid flesh and no flabby fat. She is 42 1/2 ft. 6 1/2 inches tall, heavy bones and solid muscles. She swims every day and she means swimming, not sitting around in a bathing suit. Cuts her lawn, cares for her own garden, walks and plays golf. Her friends say she looks younger than her age, but she believes she would look 10 years younger still if not for her figure.

ARE YOU UNHAPPY AT HOME? SOME DAY YOU MAY LONG FOR IT

I often wonder if the young people who write to me complaining of their homes will not, in after years, look back to the days they spent there with longing and regret. Of course there are unhappy homes where there is misunderstanding and constant quarreling from which the children gladly go forth to homes of their own, or even to boarding houses, finding more congenial surroundings. But most of the annoyances of family life are really so trivial that they disappear from one's mind after one gets away, and only the memory of love and the sheltering arms of father and mother remain.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl of 16, and am not allowed to run around with boy friends. My mother will hardly allow me to go anywhere or do anything. Two boys called me up several times and my mother took out the phone. I would love to talk to my mother and find out what she means, or would you let it go? I have an older sister, and when she was 15 she was allowed to go to dances and have her boy friends at the house. She is married and seems very happy. Do you think my mother has something against me?"

"BAEE."

I think your mother thinks of you as her baby, and hates the idea of your ever going away from her, and so encourages anything that gives you outside interests. It is really selfish of her, but natural, and the very best thing you can do is to talk to her and tell her frankly how you feel.

"BAEE."

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl in my teens, and I am in love with a boy four years my senior. There has been a little misunderstanding for which I am to blame. Do you think it would be proper for me to call him on the phone and ask him to call that I might explain?"

Yes.

"BROWN EYES."

"Me AND MY SHADOW."

The Runaway Waves

"GUE-GUE-GUE-GUE-GUE-GUE!" The water gurgled in glee. Now I am mightier than you are, oh water! You can hold me no longer. I am running away from you, and what a good time I shall have! I shall flow in any and every direction—no more running in a straight course, whether I wish to or not! Now I shall see what lies just above your tops. Ooh! Trees and reefs and a queer prickly bush! Oh dear me, how happy I am! What fun it is to ripple out here in the open!

"Sacred this and his brother Scarlet (for these were the names the people of Egypt had given to White-Coat and Red-Feathers), flew to the very top of a tall palm tree and sat there too amazed to say a word."

"And the water spread and spread until all the ground around, which had been so dry, had been turned into a great lake, and here and there clumps of trees rose out of it like islands."

"I say, brother Scarlet, it seems to me that we better move further inland. I like the water, and so do you, but it won't be far more pleasant for use to know what we can depend upon. I

PUNTS AND PASSES

James Adair, president of the City Board of Education, is venturing predictions for the outcome of this week on the outcome of twenty-six collegiate football games scheduled for Saturday.

Picking winners is increasingly difficult this Saturday for as mid-season is reached most of the admitted good teams this season are beginning to face each other. In many games scheduled for Saturday it is simply a case of testing a coin to determine the victor.

The ranks of many hitherto undefeated teams will be considerably thinned. Here are Adair's selections:

Harvard to beat Dartmouth.
Army to beat Yale.
Princeton to beat Cornell.
Penn State to beat Syracuse.
Navy to beat Penn.
Pittsburgh to beat Carnegie Tech.

Colgate to beat New York U.
W. and J. to beat Fordham.
West Virginia to beat Lafayette.
Notre Dame to beat Drake.

Purdue to beat Chicago.
Wisconsin to beat Michigan.
Illinois to beat Northwestern.
Iowa to beat Minnesota.

Indiana to beat Ohio State.
Missouri to beat Nebraska.
Denison to beat Ohio Wesleyan.
Wittenberg to beat Cincinnati.

Ashland to beat Case.
Wooster to beat Western Reserve.
Oberlin to beat Hiram.

Oberlin to beat Mt. Union.
Ohio U. to beat Ohio Northern.
Heidelberg to beat Baldwin-Wallace.

Dayton to beat Detroit.
Quantico Marines to beat St. Xavier.

"SPEED" K. O. D. IN BATTLE IN DAYTON

"Speed" Crawford, aspiring Xenia colored fighter, was knocked out in the second round of a scheduled four-round bout by the "Zulu Kid" on the program at the Palace Theater in Dayton Wednesday night.

Fighting in the opening bout of the evening, the Xenia colored youngster was rocked to sleep by a hard right to the jaw in the second round after having previously been knocked down for the count of six. The "Zulu Kid" substituted for Henry Betty, Dayton, who was originally matched to fight Crawford.

"Speed" hopes for a return bout in two weeks.

Bowling

Totalling 2,620 in three games, the team composed of Kepler, Owens, Gable and Sayre, using two "dummy" scores, won the weekly match in the Business Men's Bowling League with a margin of sixty-three pins. Gable, member of the winning team, had a series of 518, including a 202 score, which was high for the match. Box score:

XENIA IN GOOD CONDITION FOR FRIDAY TILT; REESE IS BOSS

Coach Walter "Pinky" Wilson's hard-fighting Xenia Central High School gridsters will clash with Miami Valley High School League game of the season for the Blue and White eleven Friday afternoon at Cox Memorial Athletic Field. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

Dave Reese, Denison University, will referee the contest with A. E.

Richards, of Pittsburgh, as umpire. Paul Fuller, Xenia, will be head linesman.
The Xenia football squad is not expected to be handicapped by injuries in the game as all members are in good physical condition. Xenia has every respect for the "Bummers" fighting qualities, more since Miami Valley has dropped two straight league games and is anticipating stubborn opposition.

NICKNAMES STILL COMING IN FOR HIGH TEAM

HELP.

Something must be done about this at once. Xenia Central High athletic teams are in dire need of a nickname.

What can YOU do to help out? Here is a big opportunity simply because everybody old enough to wiggle a pencil can get into it.

Here is the situation. Xenia teams have never had an appropriate nickname and the contest being conducted this week does not close until 5 p. m. Saturday.

Central is proud of its athletic teams and wants them to have a good nickname. So it is not yet too late to send in your suggestions to the Sporting Department of The Gazette.

Maybe YOU will be the lucky individual who will get to see the remaining home football games and all of the home basketball games free of charge.

The judging committee, in choosing the best name from the suggestions submitted, will take into consideration originality and appropriateness. The committee reserves the right to reject all names if none are deemed worthy of Central's fighting qualities.

The winner will be announced as soon as possible after the contest closes, probably next Tuesday.

DENISON TILT WITH WESLEYAN FEATURE OF SATURDAY GAMES

CINCINNATI, Oct. 25.—Two teams which have not permitted a point to be scored against them by Ohio teams this fall will come together at Delaware Saturday afternoon when the high-powered football machines of Ohio Wesleyan and Denison Universities battle for what may be the championship of the Buckeye Association.

The team winning this game may be defeated later on by a Buckeye rival but the chances are against that.

If either is strong enough to defeat the other it should continue unbeaten in the six-school group which rapidly is becoming a real power in collegiate athletics. Wesleyan's record is more impressive than that possessed by Denison and even Denison men admit their team will work something of a miracle if it bowls over the Battling Bishops.

Although Denison scored one more touchdown against Miami than did Wesleyan in the following week, some Denison men refuse to get excited over this. They point out that Miami went against Denison with a rather green team which gained the experience needed in that game to put up a better scrap against Wesleyan a week later.

Should Denison and Wesleyan be even in touchdowns Saturday Denison will have the better chance of winning by a point or two because Captain Mitchell, Gregory of the Baptists is superior to anyone on the Wesleyan team at kicking goals following touchdowns and at kicking field goals too.

Gregory is a demon goal kicker and last year made one of the longest place kicks of the season, a fifty-yard boot squarely between the uprights which beat Cincinnati 3 to 0.

Wesleyan has been decidedly weak at adding the extra points following their touchdowns and if the Bishops ever get in a real tight place this weakness may spoil their hopes for an unbeaten season.

"SPEED" K. O'D. IN BATTLE IN DAYTON

"Speed" Crawford, aspiring Xenia colored fighter, was knocked out in the second round of a scheduled four-round bout by the "Zulu Kid" on the program at the Palace Theater in Dayton Wednesday night.

Fighting in the opening bout of the evening, the Xenia colored youngster was rocked to sleep by a hard right to the jaw in the second round after having previously been knocked down for the count of six. The "Zulu Kid" substituted for Henry Betty, Dayton, who was originally matched to fight Crawford.

"Speed" hopes for a return bout in two weeks.

Bowling

Totalling 2,620 in three games, the team composed of Keppler, Owens, Gable and Sayre, using two "dummy" scores, won the weekly match in the Business Men's Bowling League with a margin of sixty-three pins. Gable, member of the winning team, had a series of 515, including a 202 score, which was high for the match. Box score:

Nebraska and Syracuse have split the football tussles between them. Each school has scored three victories.

SPEAKING OF TIES
When Fordham beat Holy Cross the other day the New York school tied up its series with its northern rival. Each school has won eight of their seventeen contests. The odd game was a 7-7 tie, in 1926.

XENIA IN GOOD CONDITION FOR FRIDAY TILT; REESE IS BOSS

Coach Walter "Pinky" Wilson's hard-fighting Xenia Central High School cricketers will clash with Miami Valley High in the second game of the season for the Blue and White eleven Friday afternoon at Cox Memorial Athletic Field. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

Dave Reese, Denison University, will referee the contest with A. E.

Richards, of Pittsburgh, as umpire. Paul Fuller, Xenia, will be head umpire.
The Xenia football squad is not expected to be handicapped by injuries in the game as all members are in good physical condition. Xenia has every respect for the "Burrers" fighting qualities, more since Miami Valley has dropped two straight league games, and is anticipating stubborn opposition.

NICKNAMES STILL COMING IN FOR HIGH TEAM

HELP.

Something must be done about this at once. Xenia Central High athletic teams are in dire need of a nickname.

What can YOU do to help out? Here is a big opportunity simply because everybody old enough to wiggle a pencil can get into it.

Here is the situation. Xenia teams have never had an appropriate nickname and the contest being conducted this week does not close until 5 p. m. Saturday.

Central is proud of its athletic teams and wants them to have a good nickname. So it is not yet too late to send in your suggestions to the Sporting Department of The Gazette.

Maybe YOU will be the lucky individual who will get to see the remaining home football games and all of the home basketball games free of charge.

The judging committee, in choosing the best name from the suggestions submitted, will take into consideration originality and appropriateness. The committee reserves the right to reject all names if none are deemed worthy of Central's fighting qualities.

The winner will be announced as soon as possible after the contest closes, probably next Tuesday.

DENISON TILT WITH WESLEYAN FEATURE OF SATURDAY GAMES

CINCINNATI, Oct. 25.—Two teams which have not permitted a point to be scored against them by Ohio teams this fall will come together at Delaware Saturday afternoon when the high-powered football machines of Ohio Wesleyan and Denison Universities battle for what may be the championship of the Buckeye Association.

The team winning this game may be defeated later on by a Buckeye rival but the chances are against that.

If either is strong enough to defeat the other it should continue unbeaten in the six-school group which rapidly is becoming a real power in collegiate athletics.

Wesleyan's record is more impressive than that possessed by Denison and even Denison men admit their team will work something of a miracle if it bowls over the Battling Bishops.

Although Denison scored one more touchdown against Miami than did Wesleyan in the following week, some Denison men refuse to get excited over this. They point out that Miami went against Denison with a rather green team which gained the experience needed in that game to put up a better scrap against Wesleyan a week later.

Should Denison and Wesleyan be even in touchdowns Saturday Denison will have the better chance of winning by a point or two because Captain Mitchell Gregory of the Baptists is superior to anyone on the Wesleyan team at kicking goals following touchdowns and at kicking field goals too.

Gregory is a demon goal kicker and last year made one of the longest place kicks of the season, a fifty-yard boot squarely between the uprights which beat Cincinnati 3 to 0.

Wesleyan has been decidedly weak at adding the extra points following their touchdowns and if the Bishops ever get in a real tight place this weakness may spoil their hopes for an unbeaten season.

When Junior was ill!

JUNIOR is the only grandchild in the family. When he had that serious illness a few months ago, his grandparents were almost frantic. The old folks lived in a village a hundred miles away, but that didn't prevent them from keeping in constant communication with Junior's parents.

Every day they called by telephone. And when the doctor said Junior was out of danger, his Dad called the old folks and was breaking the good news in less than a minute. Though they weren't thinking of the cost at the time, they were later surprised to find that each call averaged only 70 cents.

Out-of-town telephone service today is almost as fast as the local. When you furnish the number of the distant telephone, the connection usually is made while you hold the line—in a minute or less.

POLICE CAPTURE TWO AFTER GARAGES ROBBED WEDNESDAY

Captured by police after breaking into two private garages on Cincinnati Ave., late Wednesday night, Harry Duncan, 19, and Robert Johnson, 24, were scheduled to be arraigned before Mayor John W. Prugh on charges of burglary and larceny Thursday afternoon.

The pair broke into garages owned by Gilbert R. Hisey, 410 Cincinnati Ave., and Marvin F. Ringer, 408 Cincinnati Ave.

In order to gain entrance to the Hisey garage, the youths are alleged to have thrown a brick through a window. The front door was battered down in order to get out.

A new lawn mower was stolen from Ringer's garage, and a spot light and two automobile tires, one a new tire, were taken from the neighboring garage.

A neighbor hearing the noise, notified police and Patrolmen Charles Thompson and George Robinson took the pair into custody on Hisey's premises. No resistance was offered.

Police also confiscated a Ford coupe, owned by Duncan, in which it is believed the youths intended to make their get-away. Duncan told police he bought the car in Springfield and authorities were attempting to verify his ownership of the machine Thursday.

Two cigar boxes and a cuspidor found in the car indicated to police that the pair may have perpetrated the robbery of Harper's pool room in Cedarville several nights ago in which fifteen cigar boxes, 100 cartons of cigarettes and a new radio set were stolen.

Duncan's family lives in Wilmington but both youths had been employed in Springfield, although they formerly lived here, Duncan was released from the Ohio State Reformatory about two months ago after serving a sentence for burglary.

The affidavits against the pair were filed by Gilbert Hisey.

The annual carnival was held on Dayton St. in Yellow Springs Wednesday night.

The section was well decorated, many merchants of the town having donated prizes for excellency in costuming. Virtually the entire village congregated on the thoroughfare.

Supper was served and various amusements were offered by the executive committee.

The celebration was jointly sponsored by the Library Association and the Civic Club of Yellow Springs for the benefit of the library.

Mrs. Smith was before marriage Miss Violet Brunk, younger sister of Mrs. Wilbur Street, E. Third St. She has often visited here and is well known in Xenia.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the home, 423 Rice St., Springfield.

A Redpath Chautauqua is assured for Xenia in 1929, according to an announcement Thursday by Mrs. Olive K. Dean, secretary of the Chautauqua Association here.

The contract for next year was completed Thursday when the required seventy-six guarantors were obtained. Miss Marie Fredericks, of the Columbus bureau, has been in the city this week assisting in completing the contract.

Dates for the Chautauqua and details of the program for 1929 will be announced later.

FAMILY DEDICATES MONUMENT TO PIONEER ANCESTOR

Two hundred people, including relatives from distant states, gathered at Bethel Cemetery, near Mount Holly last month to dedicate a monument to their ancestors, John and Hester Campbell. The monument was the gift of Melville Clark Campbell, Wichita, Kan., and contained a tablet donated by the Wichita, Kan., D. A. R. chapter. Appropriate addresses marked the dedication exercises.

An Easy Way to Get Enough Vegetables!

SOME people know all about the value of various vegetables, and the reader may know just which vegetables add the inner system most. But it's another thing to eat them in sufficient quantities! Why not get the benefit of their goodness in the pleasant form of syrup pepsin?

Were you ever told there is as much good in a spoon of plain syrup pepsin as one would get from a basketful of vegetables? Those who have learned this secret of good health don't have to pamper their stomachs, or whip-up their bowels with strong medicines. They seldom, if ever, have liver trouble and can usually eat anything.

Investigate syrup pepsin before you give up rich foods or go on a dull vegetable "diet." Just take a spoonful of syrup pepsin now and

In Five MILLION HOMES TONIGHT

What will happen in your household tonight if Babe can't sleep, and won't stop crying? It may be serious, if you've only medicines meant for grown-ups. You needn't worry, if you have a bottle of Castoria. A few drops, and the little one is comforted; a few moments, and all is serene once more. Yet you have given nothing but a vegetable product which doctors approve for the tiniest babies. Just a gentle, soothing preparation the very taste of which tells you it is harmless.

Castoria is always a boon in the home where there are children of any age; for the little everyday ills, fretful spells, or any upset. And a blessing when a sudden attack of colic or acute constipation demands relief. Never be without Castoria; some mothers keep an extra bottle put away.

Buy yours now, and have it always ready. But don't regard it as something you must save for emergencies. It is one thing a mother may use freely, as often as needed. A safe and sensible form of comfort for any baby, or twenty-five million bottles would not have been bought last year!

POLICE CAPTURE TWO AFTER GARAGES ROBBED WEDNESDAY

Captured by police after breaking into two private garages on Cincinnati Ave., late Wednesday night, Harry Duncan, 19, and Robert Johnson, 24, were scheduled to be arraigned before Mayor John W. Prugh on charges of burglary and larceny Thursday afternoon.

The pair broke into garages owned by Gilbert R. Hisey, 410 Cincinnati Ave., and Marvin F. Ringer, 408 Cincinnati Ave.

In order to gain entrance to the Hisey garage, the youths are alleged to have thrown a brick through a window. The front door was battered down in order to get out.

A new lawn mower was stolen from Ringer's garage, and a spot light and two automobile tires, one a new tire, were taken from the neighboring garage.

A neighbor hearing the noise, notified police and Patrolmen Charles Thompson and George Robinson took the pair into custody on Hisey's premises. No resistance was offered.

Police also confiscated a Ford coupe, owned by Duncan, in which it is believed the youths intended to make their get-away. Duncan told police he bought the car in Springfield and authorities were attempting to verify his ownership of the machine Thursday.

Two cigar boxes and a cuspidor found in the car indicated to police that the pair may have perpetrated the robbery of Harper's pool room in Cedarville several nights ago in which fifteen cigar boxes, 100 cartons of cigarettes and a new radio set were stolen.

Duncan's family lives in Wilmington but both youths had been employed in Springfield, although they formerly lived here. Duncan was released from the Ohio State Reformatory about two months ago after serving a sentence for burglary.

The affidavits against the pair were filed by Gilbert Hisey.

YELLOW SPRINGS STAGES CARNIVAL

The annual carnival was held on Dayton St. in Yellow Springs Wednesday night.

The section was well decorated, many merchants of the town having donated prizes for excellency in costuming. Virtually the entire village congregated on the thoroughfare.

Supper was served and various amusements were offered by the executive committee.

The celebration was jointly sponsored by the Library Association and the Civic Club of Yellow Springs for the benefit of the library.

Touches that Add Style to Dresses

By MAE MARTIN

You get so you just despised dress when every where you go it seems to shout, "I am a last year's relic." A few touches have brought many dresses like that back into style. It's amazing to see how easily they can be transformed by a few buttons, a little braid and the quick magic of home tinting or dyeing.

You don't need any experience to do home tinting or dyeing successfully if you are sure to use only true, fadeless Diamond Dyes.

Each package represents the perfection of over 50 years of dye-making. Tinting with them is easy as bluing, and dyeing just takes a little more time. New colors appear like magic, right over the old colors.

Diamond Dyes give the faintest of the latest tints and the richest of the new shades, with never a trace of that undesirable red-dyed look which comes from inferior dyes. Insist on Diamond Dyes and save disappointment.

My new 64 page book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of dollars' saving suggestions for renewing clothes, draperies and rugs. It's fully illustrated in colors. Write for your FREE copy, NOW. Address Mae Martin, Home Service Dept., Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont.

CHAUTAUQUA FOR NEXT YEAR ASSURED

A Redpath Chautauqua is assured for Xenia in 1929, according to an announcement Thursday by Mrs. Olive K. Dean, secretary of the Chautauqua Association here.

The contract for next year was completed Thursday when the required seventy-six guarantors were obtained. Miss Marie Fredericks, of the Columbus bureau, has been in the city this week assisting in completing the contract.

Dates for the Chautauqua and details of the program for 1929 will be announced later.

FAMILY DEDICATES MONUMENT TO PIONEER ANCESTOR

Two hundred people, including relatives from distant states, gathered at Bethel Cemetery, near Mount Holly last month to dedicate a monument to their ancestors, John and Hester Campbell.

An Easy Way to Get Enough Vegetables!

SOME people know all about the value of various vegetables, and the reader may know just which vegetables add the inner system most. But it's then—and forget everything else but your appetite at the table! If you have never made the syrup pepsin test, ten days may do surprising things for you—no matter how "fit" you may feel now. Children are helped wonderfully by this same skillful combination of laxative herbs and pure pepsin. Older people ward off auto-intoxication the same way. It is more than fifty years since Dr. Caldwell gave the world this prescription, yet today there is no druggist who hasn't it all put up and ready for you with directions.

SEARCH FOR MISSING DAYTON GIRL LEADS HERE WEDNESDAY

Following a report that his sister, Margaret, 14, missing last Friday night, had spent nights at Xenia hotels, registered under an assumed name, W. Slater, Dayton, father of girl, accompanied by a Dayton detective, visited Xenia Wednesday, enlisted the aid of police in an attempt to obtain trace of his daughter.

The girl was seen on the Dayton and Xenia Pike last Saturday. She had no clothing when she left home other than that which she was wearing.

After learning upon his visit here that a girl answering the description of his daughter had obtained lodging at two different Xenia hotels this week, the father went to Wilmington Wednesday night to continue his inquiry.

Slater is also following a report given him by a man who is employed in a Dayton department store, who said he saw a girl resembling the missing girl, on a road near Yellow Springs, the day following the disappearance of the Virginia Ave. child.

Since a week has passed without word from the girl, her parents fear she may have been picked up and kidnapped by a motorist after having been last seen on the Dayton Pike after alighting from a Dayton St. railway car.

EAST END NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jones, in company with Mrs. Virgil Allen have returned from a pleasant visit with relatives in Lexington and Louisville, Ky.

SMITH INTERESTED IN PEOPLE ANTIOCH PROFESSOR CLAIMS

Discussing candidates rather than party issues, William M. Leiserson, chairman of the board of arbitration of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and professor of economics at Antioch College, declared, in an address made Wednesday before the student body and faculty of the college, that "the major difference between the two presidential nominees is that one candidate is vitally interested in the people and the other is interested only in things."

Professor Leiserson, who served as chief of the division of labor administration in 1919, based his conclusions from his personal acquaintance with both candidates.

"While Mr. Hoover has been tirelessly working for the improvement of business efficiency, not so much individually, the Democratic nominee has been promoting bills in the face of an enemy legislature for the provision of the interests of the people," Leiserson said. He cited Smith's work in the state of New York.

Regarding Mr. Hoover's speech delivered in New York City Monday, when the Democratic platform was characterized as Socialistic, Professor Leiserson quoted from a letter written by the school board of Lancaster, O. in 1890. It was a violent attack upon the ideas of several men who were working on the hope of some day creating such a means of transportation as a railroad. The letter ran: "Such an impossibility as a railroad is an infidelity. If the Lord wanted men to travel at the terrible speed of fifteen miles an hour, such a desire would have been inscribed in the Bible."

Progressive views advocated by

Smith are being treated in the same light, declared Professor Leiserson. Simply because the constitution of the country does not contain particular permission for new ideas, that is no prohibition for their trial, he averred.

Declaring that "Mr. Hoover is a man of unimpeachable integrity, but in the hands of Republican politicians his stand on certain questions is shaded and dubious," the speaker praised Mr. Smith's frank and blunt statements which eventually drew the fire of the opposition.

Concerning the prohibition question, the professor said: "I was a prohibitionist in Ohio, we worked three times for the passing of the bill. The third time we succeeded, and for two or three years we thought that we had been rewarded. Peacefulness has been restored. But as time went on, affairs began to take an opposite trend. Now when we saw years ago that the country needed a reform, we came out and advocated it. At present, it is obvious that a reform is necessary. I'm sure that many men who voted for the prohibition amendment have changed their minds."

Professor Horace English, formerly a Rhodes scholar from Nebraska, will speak on Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate for president, before the school Friday.

PLIERS WILL BE ABLE TO CROWD TO HEAR CURTIS SPEECH

In order to accommodate the thousands of Republicans expected to attend the Seventh National Republican rally at Xenia Friday afternoon, State Senator T. Marshall, Xenia, in charge of arrangements for the political gathering, announced Thursday that officers are being installed in the chautauqua tent to enable audience to hear the address of Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice-presidential nominee, Myers V. Cooper, Republican candidate for governor. A microphone has been obtained from Antioch College and a speaker from Xenia. Inasmuch as this will be the only opportunity to hear Senator Curtis in this section of the state, arrangements are being made for a crowd of more than 5,000.

SMITH INTERESTED IN PEOPLE ANTIOCH PROFESSOR CLAIMS

Discussing candidates rather than party issues, William M. Leiserson, chairman of the board of arbitration of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and professor of economics at Antioch College, declared, in an address made Wednesday before the student body and faculty of the college, that "the major difference between the two presidential nominees is that one candidate is vitally interested in the people and the other is interested only in things."

Professor Leiserson, who served as chief of the division of labor administration in 1919, based his conclusions from his personal acquaintance with both candidates. "While Mr. Hoover has been tirelessly working for the improvement of business efficiency, not socially but individually, the Democratic nominee has been promoting bills in the face of an enemy legislature for the provision of the interests of the people," Leiserson said. He cited Smith's work in the state of New York.

Regarding Mr. Hoover's speech delivered in New York City Monday, when the Democratic platform was characterized as Socialistic, Professor Leiserson quoted from a letter written by the school board of Lancaster, O. in 1890. It was a violent attack upon the ideas of several men who were working on the hope of some day creating such a means of transportation as a railroad. The letter ran: "Such an impossibility as a railroad is an infidelity. If the Lord wanted men to travel at the terrible speed of fifteen miles an hour, such a desire would have been inscribed in the Bible."

Smith are being treated in the same light, declared Professor Leiserson. Simply because the constitution of the country does not contain particular permission for new ideas, that is no prohibition for their trial, he averred.

Declaring that "Mr. Hoover is a man of unimpeachable integrity, in the hands of Republican politicians his stand on certain questions is shaded and dubious," the speaker praised Mr. Smith's frank and blunt statements which eventually drew the fire of the opposition.

Concerning the prohibition question, the professor said: "I was a prohibitionist in Ohio, we worked three times for the passing of the bill. The third time we succeeded, and for two or three years we thought that we had been rewarded. Peacefulness had been restored. But as time went on, affairs began to take an opposite trend. Now when we saw years ago that the country needed a reform, we came out and advocated it. At present, it is obvious that a reform is necessary. I'm sure that many many men who voted for the prohibition amendment have changed their minds."

Professor Horace English, formerly a Rhodes scholar from Nebraska, will speak on Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate for president, before the school Friday.

The Little Yellow House

By BEATRICE BURTON -- RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. ©1928

READ THIS FIRST:

Over the poverty and discontent in the little yellow house broods a mother's love, which transmutes the dingy home to a palace of love and beauty. Emmy, the only daughter, is disappointed with her surroundings, envious of her wealthy relatives, eager to try wings. She goes to work at her first job. And there a new man, Wells Harbison, enters her life, very different from quiet, hard-working Robb, who loves her, but who represents to her only a moneyless, boring future. She decides to get away from dingy Flower street and live her own life in a little apartment of her own, where she can entertain as she likes.

So that Emmy will not leave Mrs. Milburn decides to give up the little yellow house, and they can go to live at Grandmother Pentland's big mansion, where things will be finer. Mrs. Milburn did not tell the children that in order to get the chance she had promised to do about all the house work, the servants at the big house having left.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIII

By the middle of April the Milburns were all settled in four small rooms at the back of Grandmother Pentland's house—the small plain rooms that had been the nursery when Rosy and Mark Pentland were babies.

"If I'd suspected that we were going to be poked away like this, over the garage, I should never have come here," Mr. Milburn, on his dignity, remarked when he saw the new quarters.

"We have given up our own comfortable home, and we've made the sacrifice for nothing, it seems to me."

But his wife showed him the little sewing room next door to their own room, and pointed out to him that they could be just as cozy there on a chilly spring evening as ever they had been in the little yellow house.

She had had the Dying Gladiator wired for electric light, and had seen the blue-glass tobacco jar and the noontide whistles began to blow and she looked up her desk for the week end that was her Field Day, as she called it. "Remember the spuzzy little red turban we saw yesterday? I think I'll go and catch it this noon. Want to go along?"

For a week she and Emmy had been window-shopping up and down Euclid Avenue from the Public Square to Twenty-second Street, during their lunch hour.

"Yes, I saw a black hat that I'd like for myself," Emmy said, and began to look up her own desk; "and some gun-metal choker beads with a sapphire clasp."

It seemed wonderful to her that she could go out into the shopping district and buy these things for herself. The things she had always wanted: chiffon-silk stockings, heads, high-heeled slippers, little satiny turbans that were as smart as they were sleazy. Things that belonged just to her, as Marianna's old clothes never had seemed really to belong to her.

"Will you try to be back here at one?" he asked. Then, "I've some letters to get out, and Miss Dunlap is gone." A sandy-haired, high-nosed spinster of middle age, I. E. Wright, with a wildly beating heart, Emmy ran down to join Lucille in the dressing room.

"Mr. Harbison wants me to take some letters for him this afternoon," she said, "and I've got to be back here at one, so we'll have to hurry."

"Watch your step," said Lucille, briefly, slantly, and straight to the point.

The Little Yellow House

By BEATRICE BURTON -- RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. © 1928

READ THIS FIRST:

Over the poverty and discontent in the little yellow house broods a mother's love, which transmutes the dingy home to a palace of love and beauty. Emmy, the only daughter, is disappointed with her surroundings, envious of her wealthy relatives, eager to try her wings. She goes to work at her first job. And there a new man, Wells Harbison, enters her life, very different from quiet, hard-working Robb, who loves her, but who represents to her only a mess, boring future. She decides to get away from dingy Flower street and live her own life in a little apartment of her own, where she can entertain as she likes.

So that Emmy will not leave, Mrs. Milburn decides to give up the little yellow house, and they can go to live at Grandmother Pentland's big mansion, where things will be finer.

Mrs. Milburn did not tell the children that in order to get the chance she had promised to do about all the house work, the servants at the big house having left.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIII

By the middle of April the Milburns were all settled in four small rooms at the back of Grandmother Pentland's house—the small plan rooms that had been the nursery when Rosy and Mark Pentland were babies.

"If I'd suspected that we were going to be poked away like this, over the garage, I should never have come here," Mr. Milburn, on his dignity, remarked when he saw them. "We have given up our own comfortable home, and we've made the sacrifice for nothing, it seems to me."

But his wife showed him the little sewing room next door to their own room, and pointed out to him that they could be just as cozy there on a chilly spring evening as ever they had been in the little yellow house.

She had had the Dying Gladiator wired for electric light, and had set it on the center table with Mr. Milburn's blue-glazed tobacco jar and detective magazines beside it. She had pulled an armchair up beside the table and set his house slippers on the floor beside it.

In the crimson-velvet and solid-mahogany desert of the house, the little sewing room became an oasis of cheer and comfort. Even Grandmother formed the habit of coming in sometimes to play a melancholy game of solitaire on one end of the table before she trotted off to bed.

The family never sat downstairs in the stuffy magnificence of the library or the old-fashioned parlor with its red plush furniture, its black marble mantelpiece, and its grand piano that had been closed and locked ever since Uncle Bill Park's death.

For Grandmother Pentland let them know, right from the beginning, that she did not want them there. On their first evening in Prospect Street she made it perfectly clear to them that their place was not in her own quarters overlooking the backyard and the carriage sweep.

"Well, I think I'll look over the papers for a while," she said at last, rising from the table at the end of a New England boiled dinner served by the new butler. "I'll see you people later—upstairs." And with that she had swept into the parlor with a great rustling of black tulle skirts, closing the door sharply behind her.

Every night at nine o'clock she would send for Mrs. Milburn to help her get ready for bed, to bring her a glass of warm milk, and to read her to sleep.

About twice a week three of her old friends—Mrs. Brett, Mrs. Derby and Miss Bunt—came in to play a rubber or two of bridge with her in a tiny card room behind the library. On those nights Mrs. Milburn stayed up until eleven o'clock, when she served them a lunch of sandwiches and weak hot tea, and then helped her mother upstairs to bed.

Grandmother Pentland seemed to lean on her great deal these days, except in those rare moments when she became her old war-like self again and made some quick, sarcastic remark that was like the sting of a whip.

"She makes a regular body servant out of your mother, I don't like it," Mr. Milburn complained to Emmy one night when they sat in the sewing room. "This was a fool move if ever there was one—to come here to live. Your mother does the work of two servants around here, and we pay board besides. But we're treated like a lot of hangers-on."

Emmy knew that, in all probability, they were paying very little board money to Grandmother Pentland. She began to see that it really was Mrs. Milburn who was paying their way in the house.

As her father said, she did the work of two servants.

She planned the meals and went to market for the food. She did all of the upstairs work. She did all of the mending and took care of Grandmother Pentland's black tulle and velvets as if she were her lady's maid, besides waiting hand, foot and finger on the old lady herself. She counted the things that came up from the laundry and put them away in the lavender-scented closets of the linen room.

"Mother, you work like a slave in this house, don't you?" Emmy asked her one night when she came in to kiss her and tuck her into bed as she always did. "Father says you work harder here than ever you did at home, and he's right. You do—and it hurts me to think that you're doing it for me."

"Oh, fiddle-faddle! What work is there in making a few beds and looking after your grandmother? It's just child's play to me," Mrs. Milburn answered. "Just child's play!"

She turned at the door on her way out of the room. "You're happy here, aren't you, Emmy?" she asked anxiously.

Emmy was happy. Just to be out of Flower Street was joy in itself. And besides, she had a brand new interest in life.

By the middle of April she was so deeply infatuated with Wells Harbison that he colored all her thoughts from the time she opened her eyes in the morning until she closed them at night.

And in the middle of April there came a Saturday of sunny blustery, racing clouds, and warm high winds—a day that seemed to have been stolen from the golden heart of summer time.

"If this isn't a day for buying a straw hat, there never was a day for it," Lucille Ingham observed when the noon-time whistles began to blow and she looked up her desk for the week end that was her Field Day, as she called it. "Remember the spurry little red turban we saw yesterday? I think I'll go and catch it this noon. Want to go along?"

For a week she and Emmy had been window-shopping up and down Euclid Avenue from the Public Square to Twenty-second Street, during their lunch hour.

"Yes, I saw a black hat that I'd like for myself," Emmy said, and began to look up her own desk; "and some run-around choker beads with a raphie clasp."

It seemed wonderful to her that she could go out into the shopping district and buy these things for herself. The things she had always wanted: chiffon-silk stockings, beads, high-heeled slippers, pert little satin turbans that were as smart as they were sleazy. Things that belonged just to her, as Marianna's old clothes never had seemed really to belong to her.

She had seventeen dollars left for herself every week after the five dollars for her board, and seventeen dollars were untold riches to Emmy, who seldom had had seventeen cents.

As she passed Wells Harbison's door that Saturday noon it opened and he came out. He stopped her, pulling his watch from his pocket. "Going to lunch, Miss Milburn?" he asked, and Emmy answered that she was, in a voice that was much more calm than she.

"Will you try to be back here at one?" he asked. Then: "I've some letters to get out, and Miss Dunlap is gone." Miss Dunlap was his secretary—a sandy-haired, high-nosed spinster of middle age.

With a wildly beating heart Emmy ran down to join Lucille in the shopping room.

"Mr. Harbison wants me to take some letters for him this afternoon," she said, "and I've got to be back here at one, so we'll have to hurry."

"Watch your step," said Lucille, briefly, slantly, and straight to the point.

"What do you mean?" "Watch your step," Lucille repeated, frowning, cream-colored pointed hat over her little sharp-featured face. "Wells Harbison has a perfectly good secretary of his own to take down his letters—"

"She's gone home!" Emmy broke in. "He said so."

Lucille raised her darkened eyebrows. "He could have kept her today if he'd wanted to," she said in her worldly wise way. "He knew he had those letters to get off. The last morning mail came in at eleven o'clock."

She swung around from the long mirror above the bowls, and faced

Emmy suddenly.

"Listen, Emmy Milburn, I've worked around offices a lot longer than you have, and it never does a girl any good to make eyes at her boss. The smartest thing she can do is to stick to her job, and—"

"Don't you talk like that to me!" Emmy interrupted her again. "I haven't made eyes at Mr. Harbison!"

"Oh, yes you have," Lucille calmly contradicted her. "Maybe you don't realize it, but you do it every time he comes into your office. You never take your eyes from him."

Emmy gave her a withering glance in the mirror as she pulled Marianna's old gray felt down over her hair. She picked up her handbag, and started for the door.

Lucille shrugged her shoulders. "All right don't speak to me if you don't want to," she said. "But I'm just trying to be a friend to you. You don't even know whether Wells Harbison is married or not. Nobody around this place does."

Emmy slammed the door of the dressing room behind her and walked across the Public Square to the hat store with her chin up and her cheeks burning with indignation. Of course, Wells Harbison was not married! He had told her how few people he knew in town and what lonely life he led only a few days before when he had met her in the elevator and walked with her as far as the Square where she caught her street car. He had even asked her how she spent her evenings, and she had been walking on air ever since.

It was only ten minutes to one when Emmy stepped into his big luxurious office on that Saturday afternoon. She had bought the metal choker beads and the black hat, and she was wearing them.

"I ought to take the hat off," she had told herself in the dressing room, "but it's so becoming—"

Harbison was sitting at his desk waiting for her. As soon as she sat down with her pad on her knee he got up and began to walk up and down the long room. He always walked when he was dictating anything, with his hands clasped behind his back.

At the end of twenty minutes he finished, and Emmy went out to her own desk in the outer office to type the letters. When she took them back to him to sign, he had his hat and came on the desk before him.

"I'll walk down to the corner with you, Miss Milburn," he said, picking up his pad and he'll drop these into the mail chute on our way."

Skin Eruptions successfully treated from within

SKILLED physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system.

This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself and friends to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build rich, red blood—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

In building rich, red blood cells, S.S.S. improves the processes by which the body is nourished.

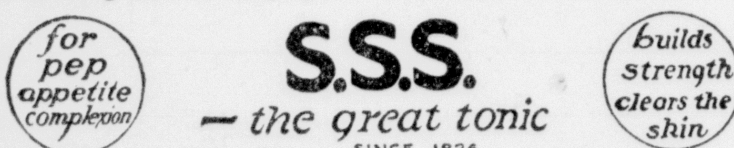

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S., which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin and makes you strong and fills you with energy."

Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle thorough, natural movement without forming a habit of ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25¢ today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. H. L. Sayre's Drug Store.

WILLIAM HUGHES CLAIMED BY DEATH

William Hughes, 71, died at his home, one-half mile from Xenia on the Columbus Pike, Thursday morning at 7 o'clock. Death was caused by a complication of diseases. He had been in failing health eighteen months.

Surviving are his widow, and two sons, Virgil and Ralph of Xenia; one brother, C. J. Hughes, Montgomery, Ind., and one sister, Mrs. Mary Hayslett, Clifton Forge, Va., and a half-sister, Mrs. Henry Black, Irongate, Va.

Mr. Hughes was a resident of Xenia about twenty-five years and was head farmer at the Greene County Infirmary twelve years.

Funeral services will be held at the residence Saturday at 2 p. m., with burial in Jamestown Cemetery.

RALLY PLANNED

A Greene County rally of Home Guards and Mother's Jewels will be held at the Cedarville M. E. Church, Saturday, October 27, beginning at 10 a. m. Mrs. C. E. Bice, Mrs. O. B. Sandefur, Dayton and Miss Bertha Beebe, Xenia, are the speakers.

Dorothy Louise Barnes, Xenia, will preside. Lunch will be served.

PICTORIAL LIFE OF HERBERT HOOVER No. 16 By Satterfield

1. As Secretary of Commerce, Hoover brought about a complete reorganization of that Department.

2. In 1921 he handled a threatening unemployment situation with great success.

3. An ardent fisherman, he enjoyed directing the Bureau of Fisheries, a branch of his department.

4. The Department of Commerce fought the British rubber monopoly to a finish.

Thoroughly Clean

HERE'S such a difference between half clean and thoroughly clean! The double action of super-suction and motor-driven brush, which are features of all Premier electric cleaners, insure thorough cleaning. Ground in, under-the-surface dirt is loosened and sucked out, without damage to any fabric.

We recommend Premier Duplex for the average home.

Premier Junior for the apartment home.

And Premier Pic-up, the little wizard, for every home.

Ask us for a demonstration today right in your own home. Easy terms if desired.
